

Thursday, February 7, 2019

“The Universal Custom:
A History of Alcohol in South Carolina”

J.R. Fennell

Director, Lexington County Museum

J.R. Fennell will explore the history of alcohol and drinking in South Carolina from the founding of the colony to the end of Prohibition. He will cover such topics as the State Dispensary system, the types of liquors popular in the colonial and antebellum periods, as well as local customs.

The library is located at 41 St. Paul Place in Pawleys Island.
1st Thursday events begin at 10 AM and all adults are welcome.